TROUBLE OVER THE BLACKBALLING OF A WOMAN IN THE NUTLEY, N. J., FIELD CLUB-ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The annual election last night of officers of the Nutley Field Club, at Nutley, N. J., was looked forward to by the members and friends of the club with great interest ever since the blackbailing of Walter Dewsnap by a faction in the club. That unlucky candidate for membership was an innocent sacrifice to a resentment felt against land-owners belonging to the club, who, it was charged, sought to use the club to further their land improvement projects. When Mr. Dewsnap was blackballed, some of the land-owning members resigned. One of them was Adrian Larkin, the president, a lawyer of this city. In the cour the winter there have been nine social entertainments, and both sides prepared to capture the club

For several weeks active electioneering was prosecuted. The women did it at Nutley, and their husbands and brothers and sons carried it on in offices and business places in New-York, where "Nutley-ites" have their day's labor. Both sides were confident, although it was evident that the element that had blackballed Mrs. Dewsnap was in the ascendancy. The issue turned on the contest of William Boardman and George Small for president. Boardman represented the "anti-Dewsnappers," as they are called, and small the land improvement party. Both have been satily and popular members of the club, which represents the social importance of Nutley. A large annual meeting was expected, and the expectation was fully realized last night. Members of the club temporarily living in other places were present to lend their votes to one side or the other, and the pretty clubhouse on the bluff overlooking the Erie Rallroad was crowded with men and women.

The result of the election was a surprise. Boardman was elected president over Small, the "anti-Dewsnapper," was elected vice-president. S. "anti-Dewsnapper," was elected treasurer, and E. L. Field was elected master of games on both tickets. The Board of Governors was also elected. The result is likely to restore harmony. organization last evening. ODDS AND ENDS OF POLITICS.

EXPENSES OF CONGRESS CANDIDATES. COLONEL BROWN AND MR. SIGRIST NEGLECT TO FILE STATEMENTS-MR. QUIGG AND

MR. STRAUS SPENT NOTHING. Under the law, all the candidates at the recent special Congress elections in the XIVth and XVth listricts should have filed the statement of their election expenses within ten days after the election. Most of the candidates have compiled with this law, but Colonel William L. Brown, the Democratic confidiate, who was defeated by Lemmel E. Quigg, and Mr. Sigrist have not filed any statement. Congressman Quigg, of the XIVth District declares that he did not "directly or indirectly, himself, or though any other persons, expend or contribute any money or moneys in aid of his election." Isidor Straus, the Democratic candidate, who was elected from the XVth District, makes the same statement. Michael J. Leonard says he spent $22, but Daniel De Leon, William McElveen, George Munro and Lucien Sanlel, who were Socialist, Prohibitionist and Labor candidates, assert that they did not spend a cent.

These statements have been filed in the County Clerk's office. The law makes it a misdemeanor for a candidate to neglect to file a sworn statement of his election expenses within ten days after the election, but as this was a special election it is not likely, it is said, that any proceedings will be taken against those candidates who failed to file a statement of their expenses if they do so by to-morrow. cratic candidate, who was defeated by Lemuel E.

FOR ANTI-MACHINE METHODS. THE EDITOR OF "THE NEW YORK AGE" GIVES HIS VIEWS ON REORGANIZATION.

To the Editor of The Tribune. Sir: I heartly concur in the Anti-Machine movement and approve the course being pursued by Mr. John E. Milholland. I believe that the Afro-American voters of New-York have confidence in Mr. Milholland and approve the course he is pursuing and has pursued in opposition to the men and th methods which have brought the party to such a condition of disorganization in New-York County.

I will not say that the men who have controlled the party machine in New-York City have worked into the hands of the Democratic leaders, but it is evident to the Republican voters of the county and the country that the methods have become antiquated and unrepublican, and that in con-sequence the leaders of the machine have lost that confidence without which victories cannot be won. If for no other reason than that the machine leaders have lost the confidence of the voting masses of the county and the State (and I don't think this will be disputed by any one) there should be a reorganization of the party in this county, and the adoption of methods of management more in accordance with the science of political management and the demands of the Republi-can masses, who, while they believe that machines envenomed his passion. He regarded the hen as the cause of his defeat, and resolved that she should die.

The claim of Levy, Horwitz & Lachenbruch is for merchandise sold between July 18 and December 1, 1853, on credit. The attachment was and December I, 1886, on credit. The attachment was granted on the allegation that Mr. Rosenstein had disappeared or was keeping himself concented to avoid process, and was removing property from one of the stores. An affidavit made by Joseph Kravitz, of the stores. An affidavit made by Joseph Kravitz, a cerk of Mr. Rosenstein, was presented, in which Kravitz averred that Rosenstein had left the store at 4 p. m. on Thursday, saying that he would return to the store, but had not done so up to 3 p. m. on Friday. Kravitz also alleged that the stock in one of the stores had been removed and placed in a van.

A reporter called at both stores yesterday. At No. 228 Bowery. all the stock has been removed, but the fixtures remain. The Sheriff locked up the place. The names of Whitney & McMahon appear on the signs on the store, but it is said that this style was used by Rosenstein for business purposes, there being no persons of those names interested in the concern.

The store at No. 218 Bowery was conducted under the styl of the Model Ciothing Company. The Sheriff selzed all the stock there, which is said to be worth several thousand dollars. While the reporter was at the store a creditor called to learn what was the matter. He said that Rosenstein had given him a check which had come back from the bank "no good." IN HOND. A case of alleged conspiracy to defraud the Government of large sums in customs duties, by the substitution of almost worthless articles for valuable goods in bond, was called before United States Commissioner Shields yesterday. The defendants were John H. Matthews, William P. Todd and Thomas E. Jones, employes of the European express firm of Pitt & Scott, of No. 39 Broadway. Samu-Sicholas, a negro, who is the driver of a bonded truck for John O'Nell, who had turned States's evidence, was examined. He testified that substitutions had been made more than twenty times. On January 8 he drove from the public stores and from bonded warehouses in Leroy-st. to No. 39 Broadway, he said. On the way the truck had been stopped at an office way the fruck had been stopped at an office in Broad-st, of which Jones was in charge, and sub-stitution had been made there of other goods which were in cases resembling the original ones and similarly marked. Caslins, of the same place. An indictment found in San Francisco against Louis Leibes was presented yesterday. It showed that tobacco which should have been appraised at $2 a, nound was released on payment of a duty of only 35 cents a pound. The warrant under which Leibes had been arrested was discharged and he was admitted to ball in $10,000 to answer the indictment on Monday.

who, up to the hour of closins, is always hear by. When Mr. Yunk returned yesterday, his barkeeper greeted him with a tale of woe. The cash register, weaking over 300 pounds and containing about 500 in bills and elighty-two cents in change, had been carried bodily from the place. It was found by a policeman early yesterday morning on a porch of a house nearly a block away, in One-hundred-and sixteenth-st. Several bottles of Rhine wine had also disappeared. When found the drawer of the register was broken open and the eighty-two cents were taken, but the thieves, either alarmed by passersby or unable to break the stout machine, had not succeeded in getting the 500.

It was found that an entrance to the barroom had been made through the rear window, and marks were plainly discernible where the beavy register had rested on a polished table near the window. No other clews have been discovered. An Irishman who was present at the time of the discovery, declared that the thieves "must have been Dutch," clared that the thieves "must have been Dutch," clared that the thieves must have been Dutch, clared that the thieves must have been Dutch, and it is surprising that the heavy machine could be taken from the barroom and carried nearly a block without the thieves being seen by a policeman or others.

The appearance of John Drew at Palmer's The atre has been welcomed by his many friends and admirers, who have been crowding the house for the last week. "The Butterflies" seems to be quite as much enjoyed as his previous production, and he is more than likely to renew his prosperity of last season. Another French company will appear at Abbey's Theatre this week. It will not speak French, but it will act French. It is the pantomime company which appeared early in the season at Daly's Theatre. It will present, as then, "The Prodigal Son."
